Brooks Baseball Team Wins Many Victories

During the year 1915 the Brooks Giants had one of the most successful seasons ever known, and a great deal of credit is due Manager F. H. Moisan, (commonly and lovingly known to the boys far and wide as "Cyra Noble") who was able by some mysterious powers of persuasion, to secure the services of that young phenom, "Keene," also known as "Speck," of Salem high school fame. Of course, it goes without saying that Keno is almost a whole team in himself, but our local farmer boys certainly played some ball, and gave, as Keene expressed it, "Class A" support.

During a short season of about four months, the Brooks team played eight games and winning all but two of them; one of which went to the strong Harriman club team of Portland, with a one to nothing score, and the other, (the second game of the season) went to the Gervais team on a scorekeepers error, as our boys made the most runs, and it was a good game at that, going 12 innings with a 5 to 6 score.

During the season, we played the crack Mt. Angel college team beating them with a 1 to 6 score. Our young local pitcher, F. Moisan, started the season for us with a snap, but met with an accident one day during the fourth game. He dislocated one of the bones of his pitching arm at the elbow, which put him out of commission for the season, so far as pitching was concerned, however it is hoped by the local fans that he will be able to come back next season stronger than ever, as he certainly has the making of a first class amateur.

The expression is voiced by all the fans here, that "Old Cy" will accept the position as manager again for the coming season.

The financial success of the team was also very gratifying as they closed the season with money in the treasury after having been to considerable expense.

SALEM HIGH MEETS WASHINGTON TODAY FOR FINAL CONTEST

Local Football Team Plays Biggest Game of Season In Portland

On their toes to trim Washington high the Salem football team left this city this morning at 9:45 for Portland where they meet the Portland league leaders on Multnomah field this afternoon at 2:30. Coach Clancy's cohorts are pronounced in good condition for the fray with the exception of a few sprains and Charley horses which will doubtless be forgotten in the heat of the battle. Salem will present its strongest lineup against the Portland champions and it is hoped that a dry field will not cause a repetition of the submarine battle staged by Salem and Columbia on Willamette field.

The Salem backfield will be a much more formidable aggregation with Grovesner back and it is likely that the star quarter will be in the game. Grovesner fractured a bone in his arm in the game against Albany but that was only the beginning of his troubles as he was anchored by the faculty in some of his studies and this necessitated a conference and several anxious hours to make up the deficiency in credits. Unless Grovesner's sore arm prevented him from answering several questions correctly he will be in the lineup this afternoon.

The Washington team outwitted the locals about six pounds to the man with a heavy line and a fast backfield. In the Washington backfield is Parsons, ex-captain of the U. of O. team, who bids fair to rival his big brother as a gridiron star. Parsons takes care of the punting for the Washingtonians and is one of the best in the league as a kicker.

In all fifteen men went on the trip this morning and in addition to the regular lineup, Carson, Clark, Rouch, Mohner Reed, Tatenan, and Watson went along with Coach Clancy and Manager Fry. The game was called this afternoon at 2:30 with May, of O. A. C., as referee, Amy Houser, umpire, and Dewey as head linesman.

That useless article may mean money to you through the New Today column.

of the scores of old-time lumber packs who were hired for the occasion. Mr. Travers' "V" came to a perfect peak, and it was so clean cut that it won the admiration of the lumbermen who witnessed the performance. But this is not strange; if one stops to think that Mr. Travers was born in the wilds of Canada, up by Hudson Bay, and had to chop trees for kindling wood as a boy. He lived a good many years of his life in the forests before he ever thought of becoming an actor, and his knowledge of the backwoods more than once has come in good stead in motion pictures. Besides, Mr. Travers' build and physique make him a splendid lumberjack. "The Man Trail" will be shown at the Oregon theatre today.

Portland Sport Writer Has Poor Opinion of Eastern Football Sample

(E. A. Cronin, in Portland Journal.) There will be no quibbling over the respective merits of the Syracuse university and the Oregon Agricultural football teams, but there will be many arguments over the superiority of far-eastern or far-western football.

Syracuse beat the Aggies on Multnomah field yesterday by a score of 28 to 9 before some 6,000 football fans from all parts of the state. If Syracuse is of the best sample of eastern football, the brand they play back there must not be much. There will be little doubt in the minds of those who have seen Washington State and University of Washington football that either could have beaten Coach "Buck" O'Neill's eleven with its beefy line. The University of Oregon team in the form it showed in the last weeks of the season could doubtless have beaten the easterners. There are those who would be willing to bet heavily on it.

Fake Punt on Fourth Down. Any football team that will play a fake punt on the fourth down, within the shadow of its own goal posts and with 35 yards to go, must have a monkey wrench in its think tank. And to cap the climax, the easterners got away with it!

And, too, if Babe White, with all of his 273 pounds and his six feet and a half of weight, is an All-American guard, what is the blonde German who played opposite him and who opened enough holes for the Kaiser's army. And, going still further, what would Johnny Beckett of Oregon do against a line like Syracuse? If White is an All-American guard, Beckett is the greatest tackle that ever played the game.

Syracuse is the best. "basketball" team that has ever played out this way. The O'Neill team showed the northwestern coaches some of the most puzzling and best concealed forward passes that have been witnessed in this section. They were almost unobtainable, and it was not until late in the game that the Aggies began to get up to a defense of them. When they did, Abraham and Allen smeared a whole peck of them.

Rafter Star Ground Gainer. Little Rafter, the squintiest youngster as well as the fastest that has crunched the sawdust under his feet this season, was the star ground gainer of the day. Whenever he wasn't good for from 5 to 25 yards it was time for the Syracuse to punt. But there is a grave question whether the Syracuse backfield could have withstood the defensive play of a pair of tackles like Beckett of Oregon and Applequist of Washington state.

When Rafter took the ball, it was mostly from a perpendicular backfield alignment to the Syracuse forwards. One of the halfbacks turned out to be opposing end, the other two ran together like a team with Rafter hiding behind them, until they were abreast of the line, when both took care of the Aggies' secondary defense, opening wide to let the little sprinter through. It strikes one that a charging forward line, say like the University of Oregon, would have tripped this play up and run it almost all the way.

O. A. C. Forward Hold Well. The O. A. C. forwards held well enough against their heavier Syracuse opponents and a great amount of yardage was not made by the visitors on straight plunges. Halfback Wilkinson did not make any gains to speak of off Laythe's tackle, but behind Schlachter he certainly tore through the other side of the Aggies' line.

The prettiest fight the Aggies put up was on the third touchdown. The visitors put the ball on the O. A. C. one-yard line and the Stewart clan gathered all of its strength for a final defense. It was the greatest display of fight the Aggies showed during the game. It took the heavy Syracuse team four solid plunges, and then they got the ball over by only inches.

EUGENE BOWLERS TO INVADE SALEM FOR CONTEST TOMORROW

W. O. W.'s and Lojus Tied For First Place In City League at .619

The Eugene All-Stars will arrive in Salem tomorrow morning to complete the bowling series which was started in Eugene two weeks ago. In the initial series Eugene pulled out ahead 32 pins on their total score though Salem won two out of the three games. Since total pins will decide the contest, however, Eugene is still leading at present but the Salem team intends to reduce this lead to a balance on the other side of the score board when they meet tomorrow.

The final contest will be rolled on the Club alleys and in view of the fact that Salem has but a 32 pin lead to pick up on their own alleys and they calculate that they will just about take Eugene to a drubbing. The Salem team will consist of Noud, Kress, Day, Laflair and Wilson unless some change is made before the game.

The W. O. W. team and the Loju team are both tied for the leadership of the city league with a percentage of .619. Of the team members Kress has the highest average with 195 and B. Day is a close second with 192.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM BACKACHE?

When your kidneys are weak and torpid they do not properly perform their functions; your back aches and you do not feel like doing much of anything. You are likely to be despondent and to borrow trouble, just as if you hadn't enough already. Don't be a victim any longer.

The old reliable medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, gives strength and tone to the kidneys and builds up the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar combination of roots, barks and herbs. No other medicine acts like it, because no other medicine has the same formula or ingredients. Accept no substitute, but insist on having Hood's and get it today.

"TWIN BEDS" AT THE GRAND

Scene from Selwyn & Co.'s Laugh Festival, "Twin Beds," which comes to the Grand Theatre on Monday, December 5.

Seldom has any play received such unanimous commendation from the acting metropolitan dramatic critics as that accorded "Twin Beds," Salisbury Field and Margaret Mayo's screamingly funny farce of life among the apartment house dwellers, which kept all New York roaring with laughter for exactly 53 weeks the past season, and which will be the attraction at the Grand on Monday, December 5, presented by Selwyn & Co., the firm that gave to the stage "Within the Law" and "Under Cover."

"Twin Beds" tells a consistently laughable story of the domestic difficulties, the suspicions and the embarrassing adventures of three married couples—a pair of newly-weds, an amorous Italian opera singer and his Amazonian spouse, and an innocent neighbor and his doubting wife. All of the scenes are laid in the New York apartment house in which all three couples live.

For its local presentation "Twin Beds" will be acted by an admirable cast and the production will be identical the same, to the smallest detail, as during its record run in New York. The company, said to be the most carefully chosen cast of racers organized in recent years, includes such favorites as Juliette Day, J. Morrill Morriss, Marina Lord, P. Paul Porsini, Editha Muxham, William Weston, Eleanor Wilton and others.

The sale of seats for "Twin Beds" will open at the box office on Saturday morning, December 4, but mail orders will be received now and filled in the order of their arrival.

Scene from "The Woman Next Door," an extraordinary photo feature founded on Owen Davis' successful stage drama, featuring Irene Fenwick, at Ye Liberty, Sunday and Monday.
